December 26, 2024
New York Post

Brooklyn's priciest condo has listed for $19.5M — and a prospective owner can be in some A-list company

By: Jennifer Gould
Impressions: 54,050,145

The full-floor, five-bedroom residence atop Olympia Dumbo features 552 square feet of outdoor space. Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

The price to buy Brooklyn's most expensive condominium has reached Olympian heights.

This newly available $19.5 million penthouse residence is also the borough's tallest — at Olympia Dumbo, Architectural Digest reported.

December 26, 2024
New York Post

A deep-pocketed prospective buyer can be in some famous company there. The celeb-friendly, 33-story building is also where Joe Jonas bought a $6.7 million, 2,654-square-foot unit, and where Brooklyn Nets star Ben Simmons showed off his $13 million home to Esquire Australia. It's also where Oscar-winning musical theater star Kristen Anderson-Lopez and Robert Lopez, of "Frozen's" "Let it Go" fame, also reside, as Gimme Shelter reported.

Brooklyn's priciest condo comes with five bedrooms.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

December 26, 2024
New York Post

Open living/dining spaces come with extraordinary views.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

The penthouse is 4,928 square feet.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

December 26, 2024
New York Post

Dramatic circular space and vertical windows show off the stunning water views.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

The spacious pad, known as Penthouse B, is a full-floor, five-bedroom residence featuring 552 square feet of outdoor space.

The 4,928-square-foot aerie takes up the building's entire 32nd floor. It was designed by Interior Marketing Group. "Each room tells a story," said IMG's staging designer Katherine Anderson.

The home opens via a private elevator landing to a formal foyer and gallery that lead to an open living/dining area with views of Manhattan, the Brooklyn Bridge and the New York Harbor. There's also a chef's kitchen.

December 26, 2024
New York Post

An elegant open living/entertaining space.
Pavel Bendov / ArchExplorer

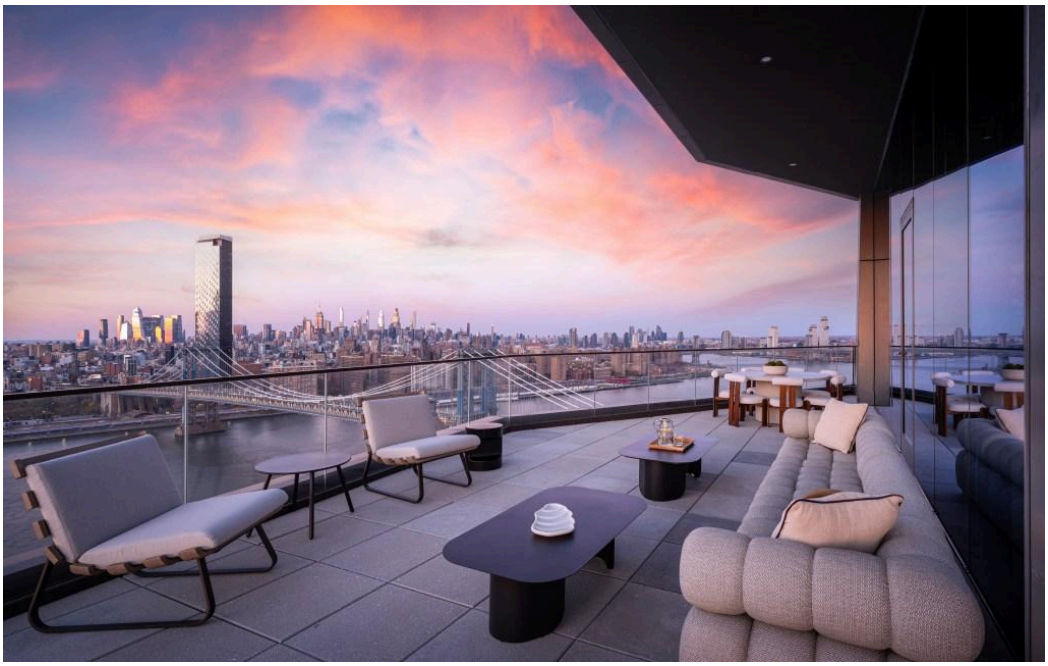
Muted tones add a serene touch to bustling Brooklyn.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

December 26, 2024
New York Post

A main bedroom suite faces the Manhattan Bridge and comes with a spa-like bath and double walk-in closets.

Amenities in the new luxury building — now more than 50% sold — include a concierge, a shipwreck-themed children's play area, indoor and outdoor lap pools, as well as the city's highest outdoor tennis court. There's also a gym, curated by Gronk Fitness, and a wellness center with a dry sauna, a hot tub, a steam room and a treatment room, along with a boxing gym and a two-lane bowling alley.

The developer is Fortis Property Group, with interiors and amenities designed by interior and architecture firm Workstead. Altogether, there are 76 units ranging from one- to five-bedrooms, plus a penthouse, starting at $1.75 million.



Enjoy views of Manhattan, the Brooklyn Bridge and the New York Harbor.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

December 26, 2024
New York Post

Killer views extend to the kitchen.
Pavel Bendov for Olympia DUMBO

The building's brokers are Jessica Peters, Carl A. Ekroth, Fredrik Eklund and John Gomes, all of Douglas Elliman — and Karen Heyman and Casey Heyman of Sotheby's International Realty.

Sales and marketing are supported by Douglas Elliman Development Marketing.

https://nypost.com/2024/12/26/real-estate/brooklyns-priciest-condo-has-listed-for-19-5m/