

February 22, 2024

Dezeen

dezeen

Ten recently completed skyscrapers in New York City

By: Ellen Eberhardt

Impressions: 2,196,487

In this roundup, we collect 10 recently completed skyscrapers that have changed New York City's skyline over the past two years.

New York City has seen several skyscrapers spring up in recent years, from the bronze-and-copper Brooklyn Tower by SHoP Architects in Downtown Brooklyn to Two Manhattan West, the final tower of a sprawling mixed-use development in Midtown Manhattan.

Completed in 2022 and onwards, these recent projects have shifted the city's skyline, while several other skyscrapers are currently under construction, are near completion and or have just recently been announced throughout the boroughs.

February 22, 2024

Dezeen

The 10 skyscrapers below include office towers, luxury condominiums and retail spaces, with some considered supertall skyscrapers, reaching up 984 feet (300 metres) or taller.

Read on for the complete list:

Photo by Pavel Bendov

Olympia Dumbo, Brooklyn, by Hill West Architects

Completed by Hill West Architects in early 2024, Olympia Dumbo contains luxury apartments and a host of amenity spaces across 33 storeys.

Its wedge-shaped upper volume was created to resemble a sail, while the lower podium was informed by the neighbouring Brooklyn Bridge and the historic buildings of the surrounding Dumbo neighbourhood.

Find out more about Olympia Dumbo ›

<https://www.dezeen.com/2024/02/22/recently-completed-skyscrapers-new-york-city/>