With the US Open in full swing, tennis fever is sweeping across New York City, with New Yorkers eager to channel their inner champions on the court. Luckily, for those who call the city's most luxurious developments home, stepping into the shoes of tennis legends has never been easier. From the historic streets of Brooklyn to the towering heights of Billionaire's Row, these properties are offering tennis amenities that cater to both aspiring tennis stars and casual players alike.

Olympia DUMBO

Nestled along the coveted Brooklyn waterfront, Olympia DUMBO represents the transformation of this neighborhood into one of the most desirable residential areas in the borough. This development goes beyond the ordinary, offering an array of fitness amenities that cater to diverse interests. Residents can enjoy a state-of-the-art boxing gym, a comprehensive fitness center, a spin studio, and a movement studio, alongside unique features like a bowling alley.

However, the crown jewel of Olympia's offerings is its exclusive private tennis court. Located on the bridge level, which boasts over 38,000 square feet of indoor and outdoor amenities, this court offers a stunning backdrop with views extending over the Brooklyn Bridge. The court's Laykold hard-court surface, the same used in the US Open, adds to the allure, allowing residents to experience the feel of a professional-grade court right at home. With just 76 residences in the building, securing time on the court is a breeze, making it a standout feature in a city where public and private tennis courts are often oversubscribed.
